American Translators Association Launches ATA-Certified Translator Seal

ALEXANDRIA, VA (September 21, 2011) — The American Translators Association recently launched the ATA-certified translator seal which was developed for the exclusive use of ATA-certified members in good standing. The seal offers certified translators an opportunity to document their certification for a client or translation job. It includes a member's name, unique certification number, and language combination. The seal also includes a link to an online verification system that allows a client to confirm the member's ATA certification.

Information on the seal, how it is used, and terms and conditions of use can be found online at http://www.atanet.org/certification/seal_translator.php.

Founded in 1959, the American Translators Association's primary goals include fostering and supporting the professional development of translators and interpreters and promoting the translation and interpreting professions. ATA, based in Alexandria, Virginia, currently has more than 11,000 members worldwide. For more information on ATA, please visit www.atanet.org.
